THE STANDING STONES OF EUROPE

Megalithic structures built with stone, prehistoric monuments of enormous size, are found in many parts of the world. The greatest number are found in the British Isles and Brittany. They are of many different kinds, stone rings of various sizes and shapes. There are circles, flattened circles, ellipses and egg shaped rings, straight avenues of standing stones arranged to link grids and multiple rows. The question has challenged modern man ever since he has observed these stone monuments of the past, "What is the reason for these stones?" They are at times of enormous magnitude. One of the single megalithic stones is The Great Ergrah which has broken into three pieces. It is on the penninsula in Quiverson Bay, South Brittany. This megalith once stood over 60 feet high and was clearly visible from 10 miles at sea it was estimated to have weighed 340 tons. One of the greatest combination of stones was found at Stonehenge. In which these megalithic stone monuments stand in a set of circles and to this day it is still tempting archeological investigators as to the meaning of these stones.

RECORDS ARE WRITTEN IN STONE by Marcel Vogel

I awoke one morning and as I came to awareness I heard a voice within me speak and say in these words, "Records are written in stone". This happened many years ago and I did not fully comprehend the substance and meaning of these words until I fell in a Jacuzzi pool, and injured my leg. I felt no pain, but three to four days later I began to lose function in this leg until almost no function was left. Dr. Ward Lamb, a Chiropractor, treated the leg with no real success. In a subsequent treatment the words that I had heard came to me and I spoke of them to Dr. Lamb. I focused my mind's eye on the area, slowed up the scene, and saw that my lower leg and ankle had struck the step. Once that image was brought to active consciousness, Dr. Lamb felt heat in that area and was able to manipulate and release the stress and tension that was stored there. In other words the bony structure, which is crystalline, stored the vibrations of the fall. Locked it into the limb, that pattern was inactivating my body to such an extent that my limb was becoming disfunctional.

By focusing your mind on the traumatized area, you can reconstruct the image erase the pattern and the body becomes functional and normal.

The thought came to me that if we store information in the bony structure of our body could not the ancient people have stored information in the megalithic structures that they built, over eons of time, out of stone and in the form of standing circles.

I was able to investigate Stonehenge in the early 70's when it was possible to freely explore the structure.

Underwood, in his research, discovered that there was a grouping of ley lines underneath the stones of Stonehenge and a spiral ley lines exist under the altar stone. (A ley line is a moving body of water that emits a weak but distinct magnetic field). This field, in turn, can interact with the stones that Stonehenge and create a secondary field that you can tune to. It is possible to release the information that is stored in Stonehenge. Along with four other people I located one of the ley lines going to the altar stone. I stood on the ley line, with the four other people around me in a semi-circle facing the altar stone. I pointed a four sided healing crystal at the altar stone. We all breathed in and then breathed out, we were drawn through the crystal and out into space. We experienced an altered state of consciousness. We experienced the use of these stone as information transfer systems for communication with other intelligences in outer space. We had a very profound altered state of consciousness.

Those who are truly interested can tune into these stones discover a storehouse, a library of information, waiting to be used. We can use this information for interglatic communication. I recommend you try it yourself. When you come into contact with these types of megalithic monuments, it is my belief that man not only stored information in written records, but in standing stones as well. By utilizing the power of a crystal, and the power of standing stones, as a means of information storage that transcend any written record that we have today.

Information on this will be continued in the next newsletter along with additional experiences that the author had in India. It is wise not to criticize, but to experience judge for yourself with understanding and fulfillment.

BOOKS

The Sphinx and the Megaliths, John Ivimy, Turnstone Books, Ltd., 37 Upper Addison Gardens, London W14 8AJ. This is an excellent book to bring the historic aspects of the megalithic sites and their arithmetic models and geometric form into focus. It is remarkable when you read this book and compare the geometric patterns of these megalithic sites to the structures in Egypt and Greece.
